Interview questions for Joseph Stalin

1. How did you gain the authority to take Russia out of poverty?
2. What made you want to become a dictator?
3. Did you ever have second thoughts about your actions as a dictator?
4. Did you think it was an honor to be Time's man of the year?
5. If you did not die, did you think the cold war would turn into a nuclear exchange?
6. Do you think not finding out about Marxism could have changed your future?
7. During World War 2 what thoughts did you have about attacking Germany, before they attacked you first?
8. Did you think it was wise to help the Germans with the Berlin Blockade?
9. Do you think being born into poverty helped you become dictator and if so how?

1. I have had many experiences through my time at school being a leader. Later through my life I had multiple times I was allowed to lead. I was very smart at many things and bringing Russia out of poverty was no easy task.

2. Having the power to change our country in the image I dreamed of amplified my will to be a dictator, so I just wove my way up to the top.

3. Most of my actions had good effects on our country, but many I may regret, but I can't change the past.

4. Being the man of the year was an accomplishment in itself and I appreciate it, but being the man of the year of a magazine and not of my country is no great feat.

5. The cold war was a very tragic time for Russia and I do believe that it could have come to that if a treaty was not made before it. The cold war did help strengthen Russia's influence and we might have had a world war 3 if a truce was not called.

6. Marxism was a major influence in my time when I was dictator of Russia and it certainly made up some of my actions... I might not of become dictator without knowing about it.

7. Germany was an ally at the time but, Hitler was not a person that I could trust because of his philosophy. I did think about attacking first but I gave him the benefit of the doubt.

8. Hitler was an ally so I supplied him with the means he needed to help with his campaign. I might not have helped him if I knew his true intentions.

9. Being born into poverty did play a huge role into me becoming dictator. Because I was poor I had to go to different schools and learn many different things. Thanks to one of the schools I attended I came in contact with Marxism which helped shape my future.
